

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

KAESTLE BOOS ASSOCIATES, INC. NAMES SCOTT MANGIAGLI PRINCIPAL

New Britain, CT – January 15, 2008 – Kaestle Boos Associates, one of New England's most experienced architectural design firms, has named Scott J. Mangiagli, AIA, a principal.

Previously an Associate at KBA with 10 years tenure at the firm, Mangiagli is involved with all aspects of the design and construction process, including project management and administration of construction documents and construction administration. Mangiagli's expertise includes both major renovation and new construction of educational and theater arts facilities.

"Scott has been a valued member of our team at KBA since his start with us and has continued to excel in his areas of specialty," said Charles W. Boos, Chief Executive Officer of Kaestle Boos Associates. "His vision and attention to both functionality and aesthetics have consistently delivered the excellence that our clients expect and I'm delighted to witness his continued contribution to important projects and growth with our firm."

Mangiagli's major projects with KBA have included the new Waterbury, CT Arts Magnet School and renovation of Waterbury's Palace Theater. The two projects earned KBA a 2006 Connecticut AIA Design Award, a 2006 American Association of School Administrators (AASA) Architectural Awards Design Citation, a 2005 American School & University Architectural Portfolio Award for Outstanding Design and the 2004 Connecticut Real Estate Exchange 10th Annual Developers Showcase Grand Prize. His other projects have included the new Metropolitan Learning Center Magnet School in Bloomfield, CT, and currently, both the addition to and renovations of Avon High School in Avon, CT, and Judson and Polk Elementary Schools in Watertown, CT.

Mangiagli is a registered architect in Connecticut and a member of the American Institute of Architects (AIA). He holds a Bachelor of Architecture from Roger Williams University.

Mangiagli resides in Bristol, CT with his wife and daughter.
