

KAESTLE BOOS ASSOCIATES RECOGNIZED BY ROGER WILLIAMS UNIVERSITY

New Britain, Connecticut, December 4, 2006 – Kaestle Boos Associates of New Britain, one of New England's most experienced and respected architectural firms, has been honored by Rhode Island's Roger Williams University with its Half-Century Medallion. The firm was singled out for its support of the University.

"Kaestle Boos Associates has been very generous over the years in contributing to its student scholarship award at our university and has employed a number of Roger Williams graduates at its offices throughout New England," says Roger Williams University President Roy J. Nirschel, PhD. "This award recognizes individuals and companies that have made a difference in the life of their own communities and our university and we are pleased to present it to Kaestle Boos Associates."

The medallion was presented at a ceremony at the Old State House in Hartford, as part of a program celebrating Roger Williams University's 50th anniversary on November 30th. Various school alumni, parents and corporate leaders were invited to the event.

"We are very appreciative of this honor," says Charles W. Boos, President and CEO of Kaestle Boos Associates. "Our firm has always believed in helping students who want to pursue a career in architecture, and our scholarship at Roger Williams is just one of the ways we do that. We highly value our relationship with the university and thank them for this nice honor."
